

List of tree species, protected under CITES and Regulation (EC) 338/97

Status: 23.02.2023 (CITES), 20.05.2023 (EU)

In the table on the following pages all currently protected tree species are listed for the above-mentioned status. The species are sorted alphabetically by scientific species name. If the protection status is associated with an annotation, this is indicated by the hash tag '#' and a number next to the protection status. The explanation of each annotation can be found at the end of the table.

The species protection regulations depend on the appropriate protection status and, if applicable, on the associated annotation. For this purpose, please note exclusively the protection status of the respective species according to Regulation (EC) No. 338/97, which you can find in the column 'EU protection'. The date in brackets below the protection status refers to the day from which the protection status became legally effective. If a protection status has a history, the protection status that is no longer valid is displayed in gray under the current protection status. This information is required when it has to be proved that the wood in question originated before the species was first listed in CITES. (pre-convention).

For reasons of overview, the individual species of the genera Azelaia spp. (Afzelia, African populations), Cedrela spp. (cedar), Dalbergia spp. (rosewood), Diospyros spp. (ebony), Dipteryx spp. (Tonka, Cumaru), Gonystylus spp. (Ramin), Handroanthus spp. (Ipe), Khaya spp. (African mahogany, African populations), Pterocarpus spp. (Paduak, African populations) and Tabebuia spp. (Pau D'arco) are listed at the end of the table.

We have described the species protection provisions for the import or re-export of wood of protected tree species in detail on our website.
